

GameCo Video Game Sales Analysis

Regional Market Trends & Strategic Insights

By: Jess Duong

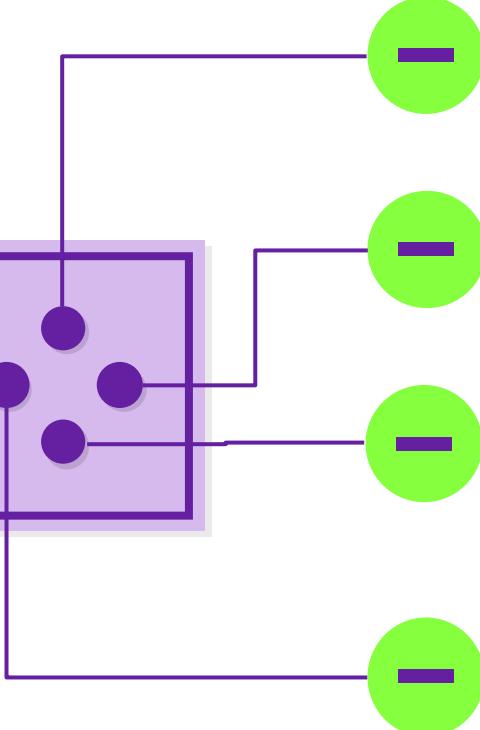

Executive Summary

GAMES ANALYZED
16,598

TIME PERIOD
1980-2016

TOTAL GLOBAL SALES
8.9B units

1. Europe Surpassed NA in Market Share (2016)
EU: 37.7% vs NA: 31.9% of global sales

2. Genre Preferences Vary by Region
Shooters dominate NA (56%), Role-Playing leads Japan (38%)

3. Top 5 Competitors Identified
Nintendo, EA, Activision, Sony, Ubisoft control majority share

4. Franchise Success is Region-Specific
FIFA over-indexes in EEU, CoD over-indexes in NA, Pokémon over-indexes in Japan

About the Data

DATA SOURCE

VGChartz Video Game Sales Database

Tracks physical video game sales for titles exceeding 10,000 units sold globally.

WHAT IS MEASURED

- Units sold (in millions) – not revenue
- Regional breakdown: NA, EU, Japan, Other
- Game metadata: Genre, Platform, Publisher
- Release year: 1980-2016

1

2

3

4

SUMMARY STATISTICS

- 0.54M units – Mean Global Sales
- 0.17M units – Median Global Sales
- Right-skewed - Distribution

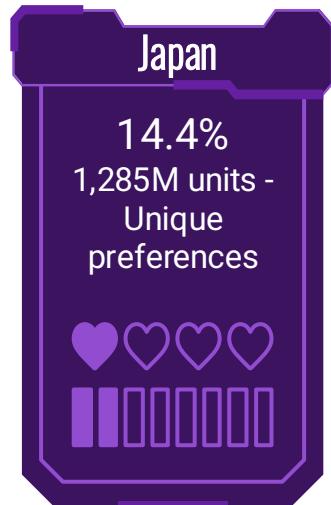

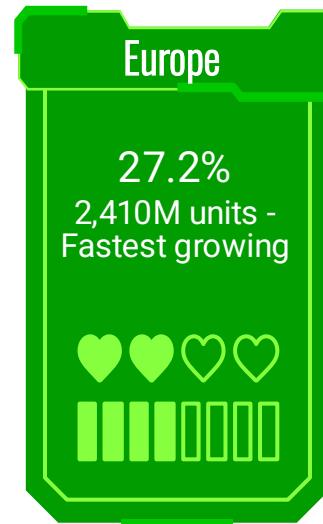

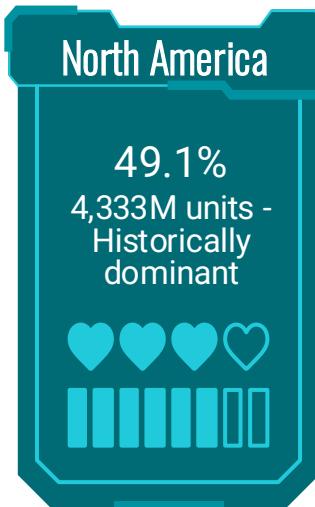

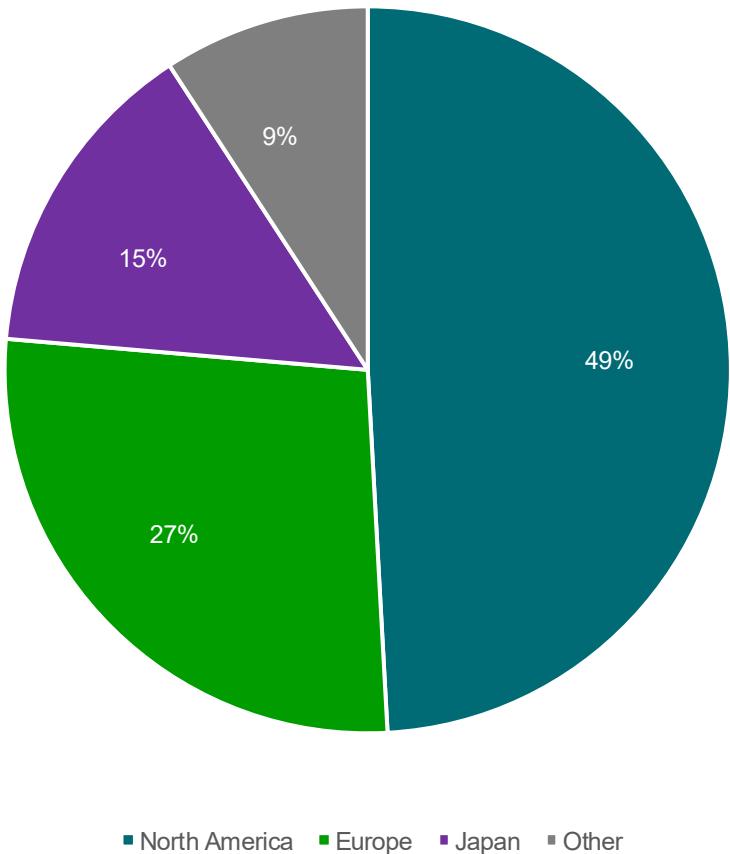

DATA LIMITATIONS

- Physical sales only – excludes digital downloads and mobile
- 2016 data appears incomplete (70.9M vs 264.4M in 2015)
- 2017 and 2020 data excluded due to anomalies
- Sales estimates may vary from publisher figures

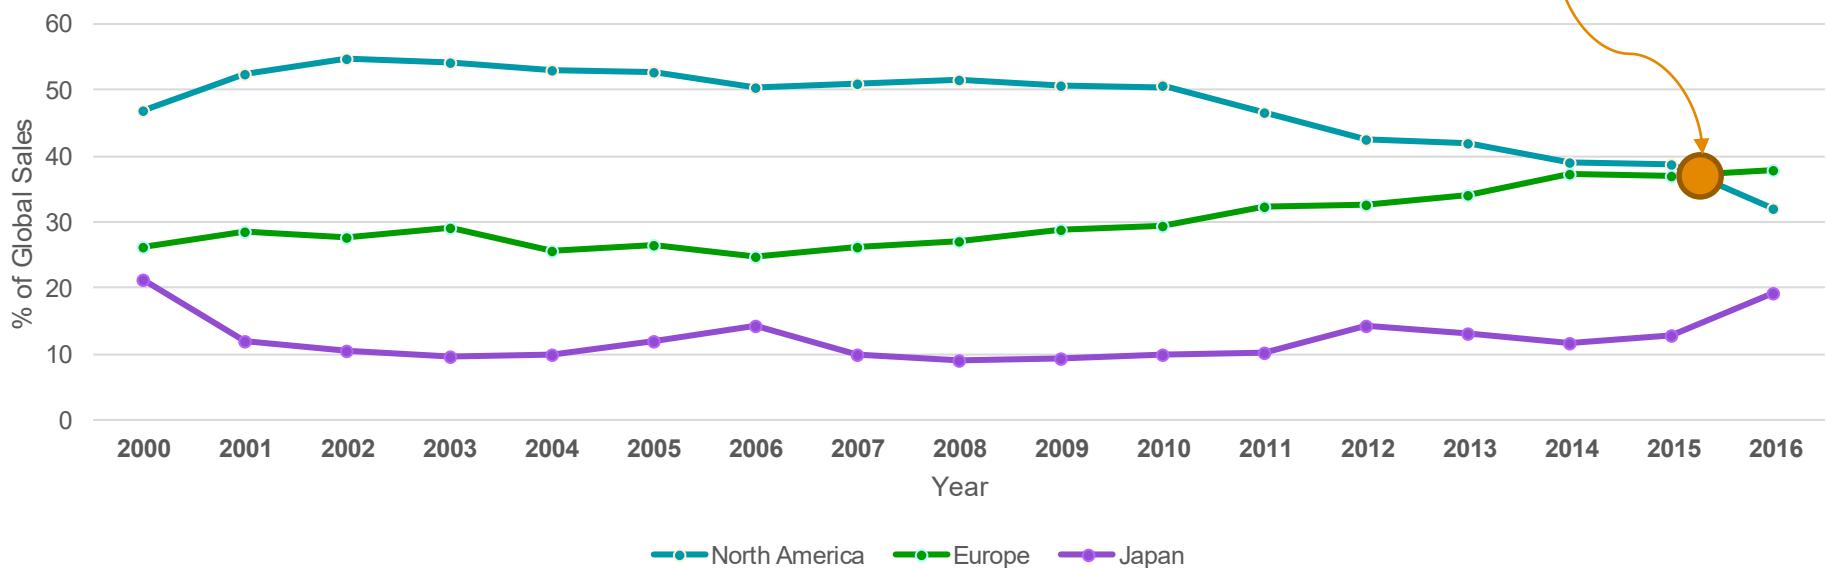

Regional Sales Overview

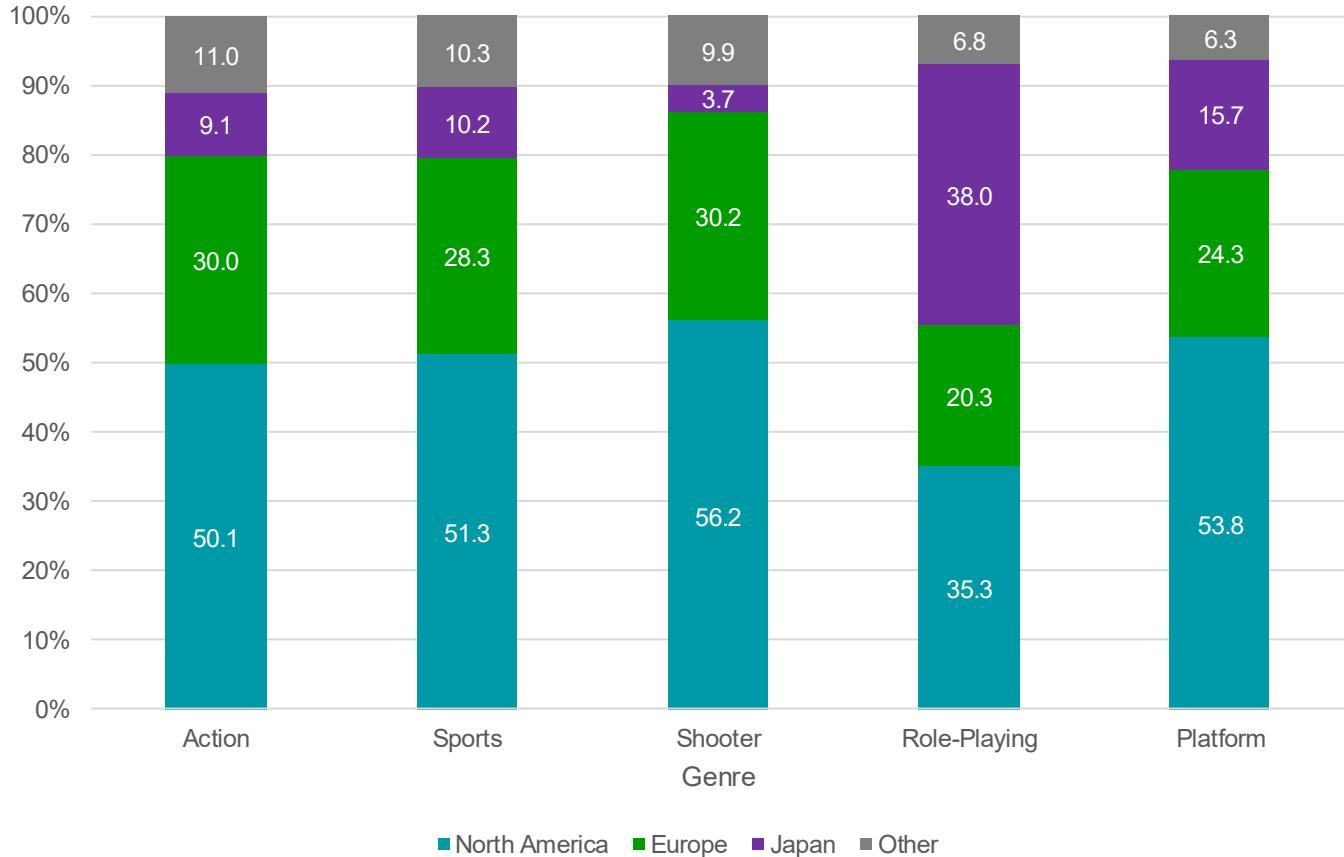

Europe's Rising Market Share

KEY INSIGHT

In 2016, Europe surpassed North America: EU 37.7% vs NA 31.9%

Genre Preferences by Region

Shooter Games

56% NA Share:
Western-only focus

Role-Playing

38% Japan share: Unique strength

Sports Games

51% NA, 28% EU:
Limited Japan

Platform Genres

54% NA: Mario leads globally

Top 5 Competitors

Top 5 Franchises: Global

By Game Name

Super Mario Bros
556M units

Evergreen, strong globally

Call of Duty
252M units

Western-dominant, annual

FIFA
175M units

Super Mario Bros

556

Wii

298

Wii
298M units

Call of Duty

252

Pokémon

251

Pokémon
251M units

Japan leader, global appeal

FIFA

175

0

100

200

300

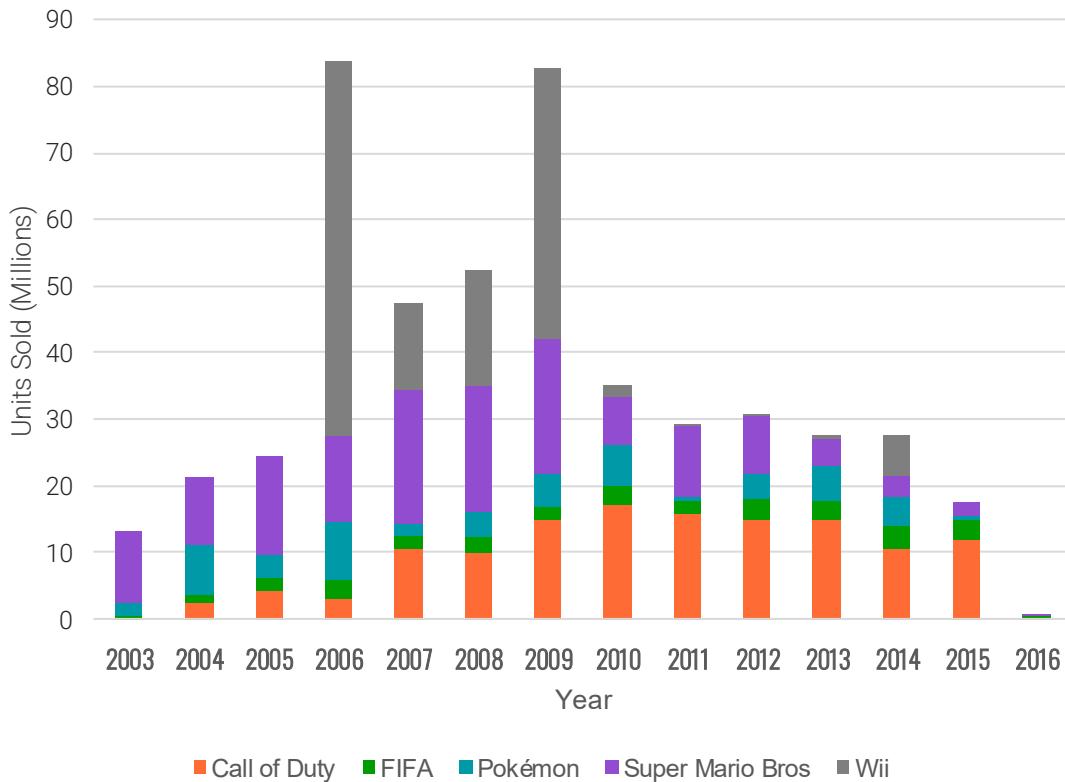

400

500

600

Units Sold (Millions)

Franchise Performance: North America

MARKET LEADER

Call of Duty

Shooter dominance drives NA

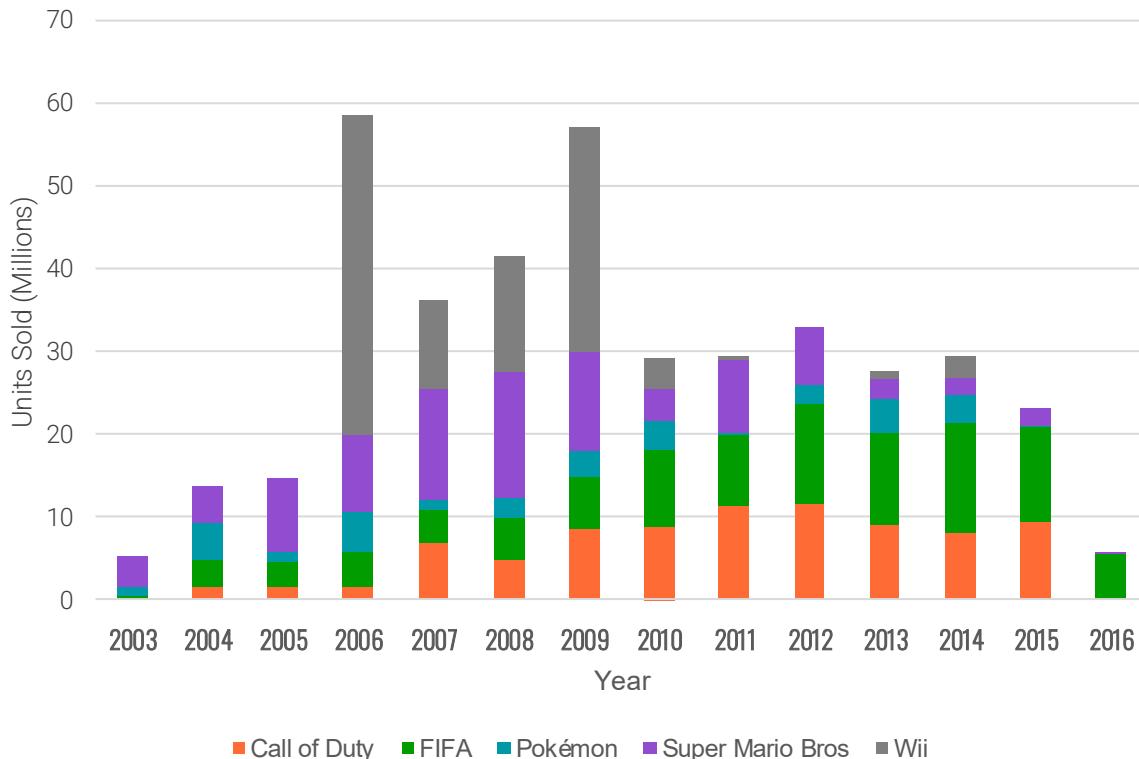

Key Observations

- CoD leads with annual releases
- Mario and Pokémon stable
- Wii peaked 2006-2009

Strategic Implication

NA favors competitive action titles with annual cycles.

Franchise Performance: Europe

MARKET LEADER
FIFA

Soccer culture drives dominance

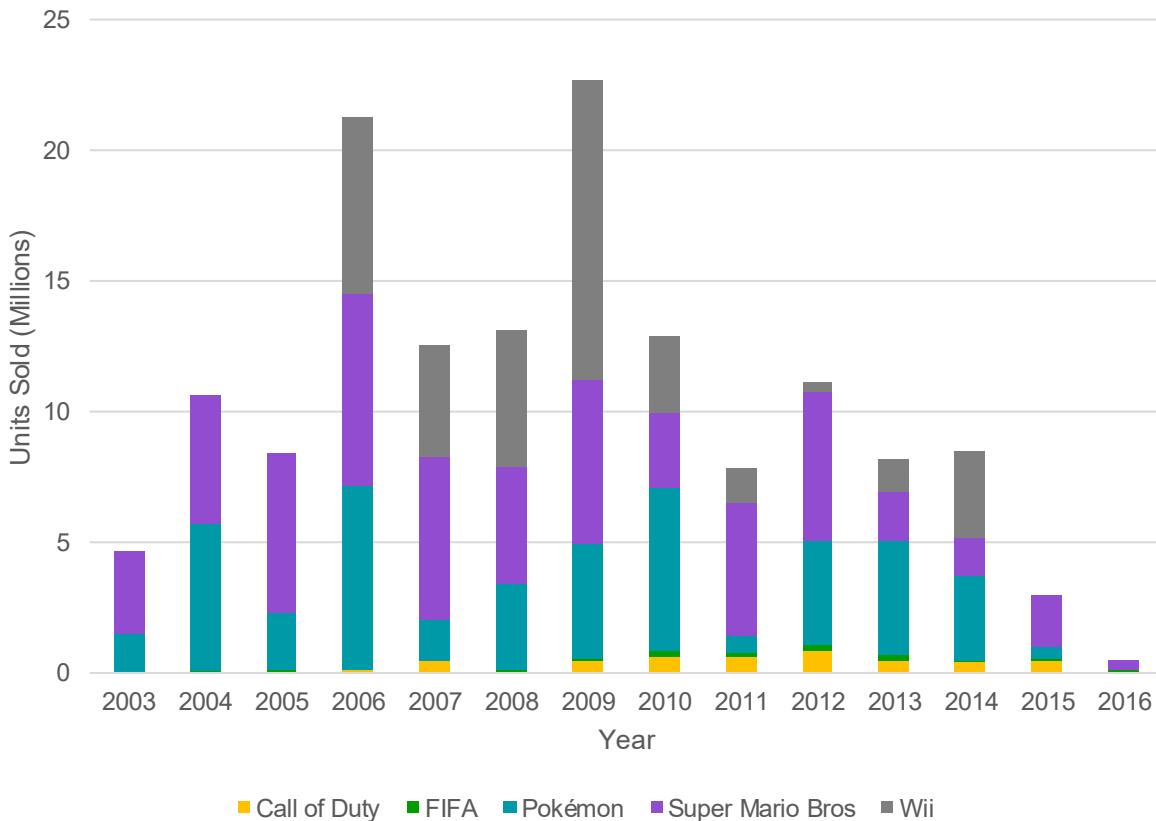

Key Observations

- FIFA outperforms CoD in EU
- CoD strong but trails sports
- Mario and Pokémon steady
- Wii decline mirrors global

Strategic Implication

EU shows different preferences.
Sports and localized content drive success.

Franchise Performance: Japan

MARKET LEADERS
Pokémon & Mario
Japanese franchises dominate

Key Observations

- Pokémon spikes with releases
- Mario maintains baseline
- CoD and FIFA minimal presence
- Wii strong during peak years

Strategic Implication

Japan requires different strategy. Focus on RPG, platform, and Japanese titles.

Strategic Recommendations

FOR VP MARKETING

Genre-Based Budgets

Action - Priority for mainstream globally

Sports/Shooter - Western only (NA+EU)

Platform/RPG - Increase Japan spend

FOR CFO

Competitive Positioning

Watch Nintendo - 61% larger than #2 (EA)

Monitor EA/Activision - Annual cycles

EU Growth Story - Investor messaging

FOR SVP SALES

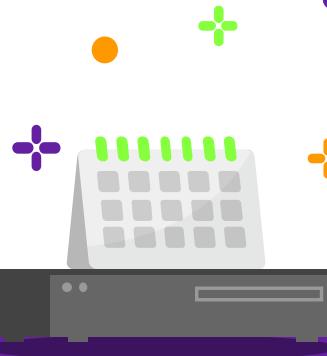

Regional Strategy

Expand EU Team - Growing share

Maintain NA - Still largest market

Japan Specialists - Unique expertise

Data Limitations

Physical Sales Only	2016 Data Incomplete	Industry Shifting
Excludes digital downloads and mobile gaming	70.9M vs 264.4M in 2015 – validate data	Decline may reflect digital shift, not contraction

Recommended Next Steps

1. Validate Post-2016 Data

Confirm EU growth trend with updated data

2. Include Digital Sales

Expand data to capture all market picture

3. Deep-Dive EU Analysis

Explore country-level data (UK, Germany, France)

4. Monitor Consule Cycles

Track hardware-dependent franchises carefully

Thank You

Any Questions?

Data source:
VGChartz Video Game Sales
VGChartz Methodology for Data Collecting

duong.t.jess@gmail.com

